A tuple should be used because it is more efficient than a list in terms of memory size and average lookup times, and the data will not be changed.